

From: Aaron Parker-Fasel
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 1/24/02 2:06am
Subject: Thoughts on the MSettlement

Would it be unreasonable to ask MS to sell technology BACK to the original seller (this, of course, is in reference to the many bought-out companies out there) for $1 or something to that effect? This would CREATE business and more jobs, not to mention competition, would it not?

Another thought: Would it be unreasonable to devise a settlement clause that specifically tries to decrease OS market share? For example, they could pay for advertisements of Apple products.

Aaron